

Woven LIGHT

有木
理下

Moon shine I

YURI KINOSHITA

www.yurikinoshita.com

▲ Bird of Paradise

有木
理下

▲ Izumo

▼ Mai Mai Mai
for The Corson building
(Georgetown Seattle, WA)

Woven LIGHT

YURI KINOSHITA www.yurikinoshita.com

Creative Lighting for Homes, Restaurants and Hotels.

▲ Sunrise

▲ Deep Sea Bell

▲ Hana Hana

▼ Genji

▼ Nagaregumo

▼ Wakon

for
Sushi Kappo Tamura
(Eastlake Seattle, WA)

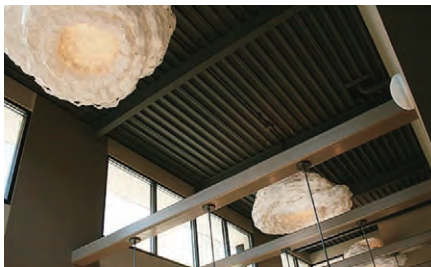

▼ Kazeoto for Ping (Oldtown Portland, OR)

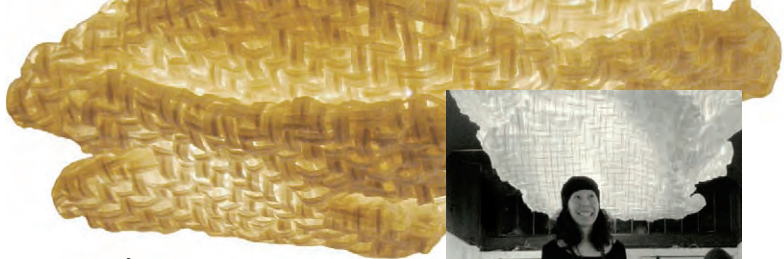

▼ Umi Sake House (Belltown Seattle, WA)

▼ Hana Hana for Boom noodle (University Village Seattle, WA)

▲ Yubiden for Shiro's (Belltown Seattle, WA)

Woven LIGHT

YURI KINOSHITA, Designer
Custom lighting

For three generations, my family has owned a business that creates and produces fine traditional kimonos in Kyoto, Japan, my place of birth. The artistic spark within me as a child was gradually ignited by my continual exposure to the beauty of the kimono fabrics, houses and gardens designed by traditional Japanese artists and craftsmen. With a desire to expand the horizons of my artistic inspiration, I traveled throughout Africa, Asia, Europe, India and South America studying and researching textiles and clothing. The result was a melding of cultures that produced an artistic expression that combines traditional materials in an innovative and creative way.

In 2008, I moved to a studio space in the Georgetown area of Seattle. Shining through the large windows of my studio there, a divine light seemed to glow between the clouds and I was showered with childhood memories of the translucent white light filtering through the shoji screens at the edge of our garden. A passion stirred within and inspired me to begin the process of creating woven lanterns of myriad shapes and sizes using Japanese handmade paper and textiles. Like clouds in the sky, the lanterns emit a light that is softly filtered through the woven strips and the sun appears to shine brightly though the spaces in between.

This is woven light!

Contact: 310-619-5300
umbo@yurikinoshita.com

有木 理下